

N. Devadasan is a medical doctor with public health training. His areas of interest are access to health care, quality in health care and community participation. He is the author of many articles in peer reviewed journals as well as four books. He is currently involved in two research activities; one on social exclusion in health care and the other is an action research project for strengthening district health systems.

He is also the Director of the Institute of Public Health, Bangalore.

