

Ramesh Bhat is an alumnus of Harvard University and University of Delhi having more than 30 years of professional and academic experience. He is life member of Harvard Club of India. He holds a PhD degree from University of Delhi and Research Fellow from Harvard School of Public Health, Harvard University. Former Professor of Finance at the Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad, Dr. Bhat has worked on a number of projects in India and abroad in area of corporate finance, business valuation, implementation of EVA system, activity based costing, financial and management information control systems, private equity finance and health care financing covering industries such as manufacturing, healthcare, logistics and services.

He has taught and researched corporate finance and health finance for 30 years at IIM Ahmedabad, University of North Carolina at Chapel-Hill USA, IIM Udaipur, International Management Institute New Delhi, School of Business Management NMIMS Mumbai, Institute of Chartered Accounts of India, Shri Ram College of Commerce. He has also held Adjunct Professor position at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He has worked as full-time Consultant and Adviser to the Department for International Development, India, and the Royal Netherlands Embassy, New Delhi.

He was Advisor to the Minister, MHRD, Government of India and a member core team of National AIDS Control Programme to develop national plan for Phase IV 2012-17. He has been on the editorial boards of Journal of Insurance and Risk Management, Journal of Health and Population in Developing Countries, Journal of Health Management, and Health Policy and Planning. He is currently Professor, Public Systems Group, IIM Ahmedabad.